GUIDEBOOK

If you've purchased a guidebook voucher with your tickets, please show this at the Welcome Desk at Mail Rail when you arrive.

For full details, take a look at our Visit Us page: postalmuseum.org/visit-us

ON ARRIVAL

All visits begin at Mail Rail and then continue onto the exhibitions. Therefore, please arrive at the Mail Rail entrance first and make yourself know to a member of staff in Mail Rail Welcome Space. It is important that you arrive at Mail Rail just before the time on your ticket. You will be able to enjoy the museum exhibitions after your ride on Mail Rail.

MAIL RAIL RIDE

Rides on the train will accommodate roughly 8-15 visitors every 30 minutes depending on the day of the week you request. There might be a wait to accommodate your group across train departure times. With large groups, the group leader is responsible for dividing members into smaller groups and staggering entry to the depot. One of our Visitor Experience Hosts will help your group to board the train.

GROUP LEADERS

It is the responsibility of the group leader to ensure that all group members know the schedule for their visit. If any guests are late for their Mail Rail ride slot, The Postal Museum staff will try where possible to accommodate them on later trains, but this cannot be guaranteed. Unused tickets due to lateness are non-refundable.

ACCESSIBILITY

We strive to make The Postal Museum as accessible as possible. If you have access requirements, see our Accessibility information here for more details: postalmuseum.org/visit-us/accessibility/

MAIL RAIL RIDE

Please make sure ALL members of your group read this information before the day of your visit.

ABOUT THE MAIL RAIL RIDE

The Mail Rail Ride lasts approximately 15 minutes and is an immersive underground experience. The ride contains moments of pitch darkness and some loud noises and flashing lights. The ride takes a loop under Mount Pleasant (roughly 1.2 km) through tunnels that are only 7ft (213cm) wide at their narrowest point. The ride is narrated by a Mail Rail engineer and the train stops at two station platforms where films about the history of Mail Rail are projected onto the walls. At one point the ride simulates a power cut. This is brief but it may be worth warning everyone in your group.

ACCESSIBILITY

Due to the historic nature of the Mail Rail and to ensure the safety of all our guests, access to the ride is restricted. All visitors boarding the train must be able to transfer themselves in and out of the train unaided. In the event of an emergency evacuation all visitors must be able to walk unaided on uneven terrain, in a confined space and with low lighting levels for approximately 100 metres, before climbing 70 steps to the surface. Due to the size constrictions of the ride, no wheelchairs or walking aids can be accommodated in the carriages and must be left in the cages provided before boarding the train.

Due to the size of the tunnels, the train carriages are small and may be uncomfortable/unsuitable for visitors who are claustrophobic. Train dimensions are as follows:

- Carriages are 130cm high
- Bench seating is 80cm wide
- Seat to overhead canopy is 87cm
- Distance between seats is 43cm

The Mail Rail ride contains features such as loud noises and flashing lights which may be unsuitable for those with pre-existing conditions that could be made worse by these features.

ACCESSIBLE MAIL RAIL SHOW

An Accessible Mail Rail Show is available in Mail Rail for visitors who cannot/do not wish to ride the train. This features footage showing the journey through the tunnels, excerpts from the audio soundtrack, and the full-length films from the station platforms.

MAIL RAIL RULES

	Loose articles on the train Due to size constrictions and in order to ensure the safety of all guests, no loose articles are allowed on the train, including bags of any size including handbags and walking aids. All loose articles must be deposited in the cages provided prior to boarding. Cages are attended but are not locked.
	Children Children under the age of 12 must be accompanied on the train by an adult.
	Boarding the train A member of staff will show you where to deposit your personal belongings and to sit. It is very important that you follow their instructions. The train will only depart when said member of staff is happy with the seating arrangements.
	Canopies A member of staff will close the overhead canopies at the beginning of the ride and will open them for you to alight the train safely at the end of the ride – please do not attempt to open them yourself.

EXHIBITIONS

Dressed to Deliver

Included In Museum Ticket

18 October 2023 – 1 September 2024

From smartly dressed Victorians and their buffed buttons to modern posties and their all-weather active wear, Dressed to Deliver takes a closer look at postal uniforms from the 1780s to present day.

Exhibition highlights include:

- A mail coach guard's uniform, the first type of uniform to be issued, originally in 1784.
- Royal Mail's first ever maternity dress, issued in 1993.
- Accessories through the ages, from hats and arm bands to badges and buttons.
- Original designs, sketches and materials revealing the evolution of uniforms.
- The latest Royal Mail uniforms, from the 'Resistance' range.

This highly interactive exhibition documents how uniforms have modernised due to factors including changing business needs, technology and innovation, society and fashion, as well as the notion of protecting the worker.

It reveals the hard-won battles fought for uniform equality and the right to express identity, from the first female posties in trousers to important changes reflecting the cultural diversity of the UK's postal workforce. It will also explore when new initiatives and designs fail.
